Re: Entry Level Software Developer Application

Dear Konrad Team,

I'm excited to apply for the Entry Level Software Developer position at Konrad. As a student entering my fifth semester in the Computer Programming and Analysis program at George Brown College, I've built a strong foundation in full-stack web development, object-oriented programming, and database design, and I'm eager to bring that knowledge into a professional setting known for innovation and quality.

Over the past two years, I've worked on academic projects that simulate real-world development, including a full-stack inventory management platform using ASP.NET Core MVC, C#, PostgreSQL, and Razor Pages. I also have experience with Java, JavaScript, HTML/CSS, SQL, and Git, and I'm continuously expanding my skills in modern frameworks and agile workflows. My academic GPA of 3.40 and hands-on experience working in fast-paced environments reflect my commitment to growth and delivering high-quality solutions.

I'm particularly drawn to Konrad's emphasis on collaborative problem-solving, mentorship, and lifelong learning values that align with both my academic path and career goals. I'd welcome the opportunity to contribute to your talented development team and grow through meaningful, impactful work.

Thank you for considering my application. I'd be thrilled to further discuss how I can contribute to Konrad's mission. I'm available at your convenience and can be reached at +1 437-254-6527 or lucastcriscuolo@gmail.com.

Warm regards,

Lucas Tavares Criscuolo
