Dear Hiring Manager,

I am writing to express my enthusiastic interest in the Junior Web Developer Co-op position (Requisition Number: JUNIO002332) at Osler, Hoskin & Harcourt LLP. As a current student at George Brown College pursuing an Ontario College Advanced Diploma in Computer Programming and Analysis, I have built a strong base in web development that aligns closely with the technical requirements of this role.

Throughout my academic career, I have completed coursework in Introduction to Web Development, Advanced Web Programming, Database Management, and other related subjects. These experiences have provided me with a solid foundation in website architecture, dynamic programming, and responsive design—key components of modern web development. My technical training, combined with my keen analytical skills and problem-solving abilities, positions me to effectively contribute to the development, deployment, and ongoing support of innovative web solutions at your firm.

In addition to my technical expertise, my professional experiences have honed my interpersonal and customer service skills.
